ASIA'S BOUTIQUE AIRLINE

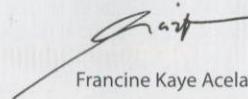

The once forgotten Koh Chang Marine National Park is now a favorite leisure destination. Welcoming more than half a million visitors each year the archipelago continues to attract investments encompassing upscale accommodations, properties, golf course, restaurant chains, retail outlets and shopping centers and other facilities catering to visitors. In addition to the usual honeymooners and family holiday-makers, meetings and incentive groups are finding their ways to the archipelago as well.

Access to the national park is enhanced with better ground transport along with more flights from Phuket and Koh Samui besides Bangkok's Suvarnabhumi Airport. Inland on Koh Chang, motorcycle-taxis are now available while the famed Songthaews or mini pick-up truck taxis remains popular.

Nevertheless, Koh Chang's natural resources remain undisturbed. Its white sandy beaches, emerald clear seawater, diversified marine life, spectacular waterfalls, fertile flora and fauna remain intact, thanks to its national park status.

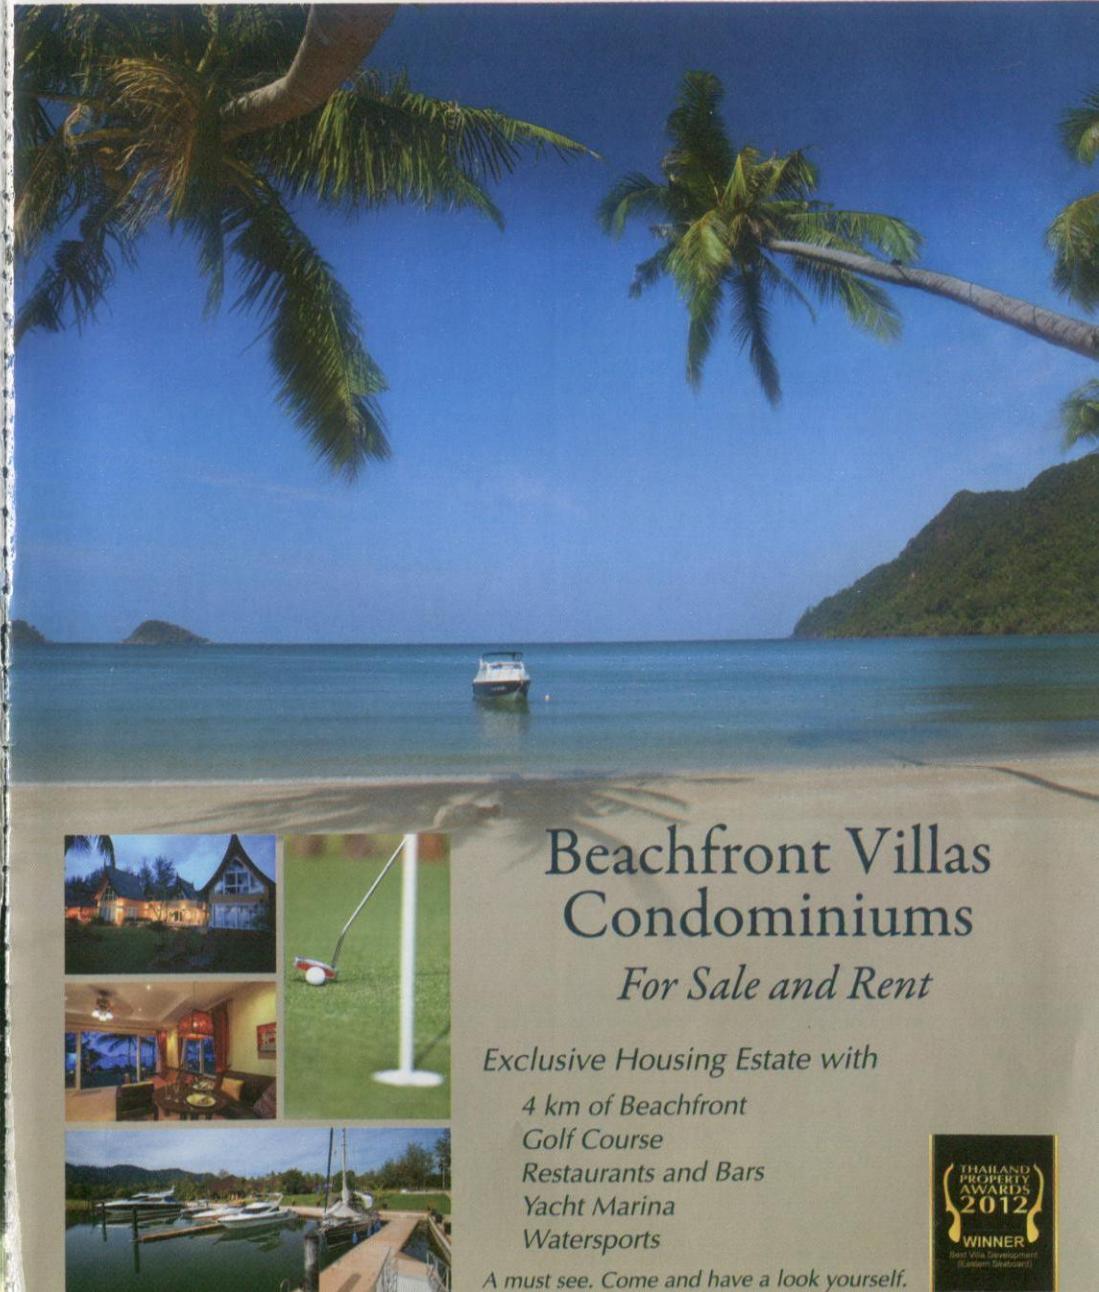

Still a lazy destination where most visitors would while away their time doing nothing but recharging, the other side of Koh Chang is quickly transforming into a fun-filled activity-driven destination. Golfing has taken root with a golf course and 2 driving ranges. Parasailing, BB gun battle, elephant trekking, kayaking, boating, snorkeling, scuba diving, hiking, jungle adventure park, deep sea fishing and even squid fishing are some of the activities that make you feel your stay is too short!

Welcome to our marine national park!

Traversing the Sea

There are 2 ferry piers in Trat servicing Koh Chang. Both are located in Amphoe (district) Laem Ngob and are a 30-minute ride from Trat town. The ferries ply between Ao Thammachat and Ao Sapparos and between Centre Point Pier and Dan Kao Cabana all day. The trips take about 30 and 40 minutes respectively.

About 25 kilometers from Trat town is Laem Sok Pier, also called Siriwhite Pier, serving taxi speedboats to Koh Kood for up to 30 passengers. You can also charter a speedboat at 8,000 Baht to Koh Mak and 9,000 Baht to Koh Kood. It is advisable to check the rates and schedules before embarking on the trips because of possible changes due to the season, rising oil prices and competition amongst the ferry and boat operators. The rates and schedules supplied here are effective at the time of writing only.

A long strip of powdery sand that slopes gently into the sea. Casuarinas and palm trees line the beach while forested hills lurk in the background. During low tide, the beachfront becomes much wider and consequently attracts lots of beachgoers. The northern end is sandy and quiet, while the southern end is more pebbled. It is the busiest area of Koh Chang with numerous accommodations, commercial establishments and restaurants. The beach is a hub of many activities, such as taking a stroll while watching the sunset and various sports activities. However, the currents can be strong during the green season (May-Oct) so extra caution is advised.

Much of the commercial establishments in the area are those that will fill the everyday need of the locals such as the Post Office, a print shop and the Telephone Organization of Thailand's to name a few. Klong Prao Beach

With a budget of: Baht 799 – Baht 16,270 per room per night

Where you will find: Amari Emerald Cove, Barali Beach Resort Resort and Spa, Magic Resort, V.J. Hotel and Health Spa

The Klong Prao estuary runs in the middle thereby splitting the beach into two. This is a long wide sandy beach lined with coconut trees and home to the popular Klong Plu Waterfall. It commands a spectacular view of the islands west of Koh Chang and the Chaichet cape. The fine, sandy beach is also ideal for children as it doesn't get too steep and there are not much dangerous currents either. High-end resort developments have grown rapidly, although the beach itself does not get too crowded. Restaurants, spas, massages, clinics, a dentist, convenient stores, tour & dive operators, a bakery, opticians, internet cafes, an airstrip, laundry, a takeaway pizza shop and a host of shops line the main road.

Kai Bae Beach

Suitable for: Solo Travelers, Couples and Families

Looking for: Shopping and nightlife

With a budget of: Baht 600 – Baht 26,720 per room per night

Where you will find: The Chill Koh Chang, Garden Resort, Kai Bae Beach Resort, Koh Chang Cliff Beach Resort, Siam Bay Resort

Kai Bae Beach is the last major beach on the west coast after Klong Prao. It has a sandy beach with many palm trees providing plenty of shade. It is believed to be where the first tourists to Koh Chang were accommodated in the local families' houses. Once a sleepy area, Kai Bae has become developed with the emergence of upscale resorts. At Kai Bae Village, you will find small shops, supermarkets, bars, restaurants and internet cafes. Dive shops provide rental services for boats, canoes, sea kayaks and diving gears to explore the sea and islands especially during the dry season (Nov-Apr). At low tide, you can actually walk chest-deep to Koh Man Nai from the beach.

Lonely Beach (Tha Nam Beach)

Suitable for: Solo Travelers and Couples

Looking for: Shopping and nightlife

With a budget of: Baht 397 – Baht 7,400 per room per night

Where you will find: Nature Beach Resort, Siam Beach Resort, Warapura Resort

Tha Nam Beach is popularly nicknamed as the Lonely Beach. It features fine white sand on the northern end and some stones at the south. Formerly a backpacker's haven, the once deserted beach derives its name from the total privacy it shares, while the fine white sand and swimmer-friendly waters are key attractions. Few accommodations are available ranging from budget huts to the more deluxe resorts. The cheap huts still remain though and the place is still loud and fun thus making it not as lonely anymore. Small shops, restaurants and bars line the main road which becomes the focal point for guests who love to wine, meet and greet at nightfall. The beach has a so-called "tattoo artists' row" which is a line of more than half a dozen tattoo shops side by side.

Going Green

Locals, business owners and visitors to the Koh Chang Marine National Park are joining hand in hand in their aim toward sustainable tourism. Necessary adjustments in operation and worthwhile activities are being undergone to help spread awareness about preserving the environment, ensuring healthy lifestyles and reducing costs.

Go Green on Chang. This is the newest propaganda from the Tourism Authority of Thailand (TAT) supported by various local government agencies aiming for the preservation and maintenance of natural resources and promotion of sustainable tourism. Koh Chang was named as the country's flagship destination for Green Tourism.

Cleaning Day. Koh Chang recently held a cleaning day participated by hotel staffs, visitors and locals. They spent one day to gather together, brooms and dustpans in hand, to clean selected areas on Koh Chang. Another cleaning day was also held in Koh Mak made possible by volunteers, resort and business owners, and expat homeowners. There are now plans to regularly clean the beaches by hiring workers.

Snapshots

Low Carbon Count. Speaking of Koh Mak, it was selected by the Designated Areas for Sustainable Tourism Administration (DASTA) as a Low Carbon Holiday Island. One of its first initiatives is the establishment of a bike trail project. The island is more suitable to the said form of transportation as it is relatively more flat and there is abundance of trees providing shady comfort to the bikers.

Organic Garden. A growing trend on Koh Chang is the putting up of organic farms well away from the guest rooms. In small and large lots, it helps sustainability as resort doesn't have to rely with supplies coming in from the mainland anymore. Ever wondered where restaurant leftovers go? It is being processed to become organic fertilizers that will in turn successfully cultivate their organic gardens. Similar practices are also known in Koh Mak and Koh Kood.

Green Leaf Hotels. We are proud to feature in this guidebook some resorts who have received certifications or trophies from the Green Leaf Foundation for adapting pro-environmental practices and being smoke-free hotels, as follows:

- Amari Emerald Cove Koh Chang, Klong Prao
- GajaPuri Resort and Spa
- Kacha Resort and Spa Koh Chang, White Sand Beach

ACTIVITIES

Diving and Snorkeling

The best diving season is between November and April and the best dive sites are on the west and the southern tip of the island, between Koh Chang and Koh Kood where soft corals, anemones, myriad reef fish, and sometimes, eels are found. Hin Luk Bat and Hin Lap both have coral seamounts. Further south, white-tip reef sharks are found near Hin Phrai Nam. A decommissioned 100-meter long naval vessel, the HTMS Chang, was sunk on 22nd November 2012 off the southwest of Koh Chang. Formerly the USS Lincoln County, it now serves as an artificial reef and the newest dive attraction. It is the biggest wreck in Thailand and is now home to a diversity of marine lives including barracuda, grouper, squid, octopus, batfish and many others.

There are two other popular wreck sites, the Koh Chang Wreck and the Pak One Wreck. The Koh Chang Wreck is a Thai warship sunk by the French navy in 1941. The wreck is only 15 meters deep in the Salakphet Bay on the southern tip of the island. The Pak One Wreck was sank after hitting a coral reef in August 1996 on its way to Vietnam. It resurfaced almost 8 years later. The 900-ton sunken tanker posed a danger to ships on international waters. The Royal Thai Navy drained off its 600 tons of liquefied petroleum gas and re-sank it between Koh Chang and Koh Samet. It now lies horizontally in 35-meter deep waters. Hotel transfers and food and drinks are provided by dive centers. Some of the more reputable dive centers include the following.

Shopping

There are many shopping venues in Koh Chang selling hand-made crafts and knick knacks. Bazaars that sell just about everything from clothing, food, souvenirs, and even household items are scattered around the island. There are also jewelry stores selling accessories.

If you want to venture outside the hotel for a drink, there is now a wine gallery that provides wine and spirits from all over the world. There are also tailors that provide a wide range of choice fabrics in a variety of colors and styles. Chamois Collection offers a money back guarantee if you are not happy with their work. They keep their customers' measurements for up to five years allowing you to place mail orders from your home at a reasonable price.

Birds

Bird watching has become a popular activity on Koh Chang. Favorite sites include Khao Laem and Khao Yai. In these areas, native species such as Koh Chang hornbills are commonly spotted.

Waterfalls

Spending a half day at one of the waterfalls and plunging into the fresh water pools after a short jungle trek is becoming a favorite activity. The most popular waterfall is the Klong Plu Waterfall which is only 2 kilometers from the main road at Klong Prao. The more adventurous tend to reach out to other waterfalls which are more challenging but rewarding.

Fireflies

During the cooler months, between December and February, fireflies swamp the mangrove forests at night sending out mating signals as they settle into the forests. The simultaneous flashes light up the dark night. It is a time where boat tours are organized to witness the romantic phenomenon.

The Shrine of Chao Po Koh Chang

The Deities of Koh Chang is highly revered amongst the locals. Legend has it that many prayers have been answered. Locals pray to the deities in times of hardships ranging from illness to low yield harvests and other miseries.

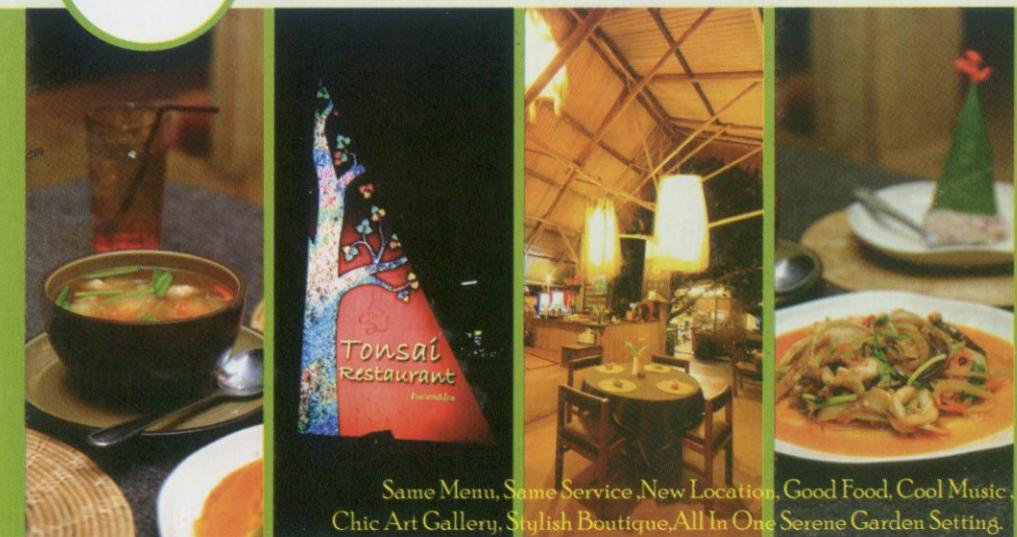

Inside the shrine are Chao Po and Chao Mae Koh Chang, literally God Father and God Mother of Koh Chang. The shrine sits majestically on a hill leading up from a steep road on the west coast from Klong Son to Ao Sapparos. Vehicles passing by often horn three times as a tribute to the deities.

Hiking

The main road west of Koh Chang from Klong Son to Kai Bae is a popular hiking route. On the northern part of the island, you can walk from Ban Klong Son to Had Sai Khao (White Sand Beach). The best hiking routes are in the southern half of the island since there are fewer roads. For those seeking a more adventurous hike, go inland to the steep and forested hills. Shorter hikes to waterfalls from their main entrances are becoming popular. There is a footpath that connects Ban Klong Prao on the west coast with Klong Mayom on the east. However, this difficult 6 to 8-hour hike should be done with a knowledgeable local guide. Khun Rath usually takes the hikers to Klong Goi Jungle, the largest jungle zone in Koh Chang, 1.3 kilometers away from Bang Bao. The hike starts at around 8:00 am until 5:00 pm and costs 800 Baht per person for foreigners and 600 Baht per person for Thais, inclusive of transfer service, food, beverage, and hiking equipments (i.e. shoes, bags, mosquito repellent, etc.).

There's island hopping and then there's waterfall hopping! Rent a trusty motorbike, car or jeep, start down east and work your way up to the western side of Koh Chang.

Kere Phet Waterfall

Start with the medium-sized Kere Phet Waterfall which is located 2 kms away from the southern fishing village of Salak Phet. Park your vehicle at the rubber plantation within the waterfall vicinity and take a 15-minute walk. It has multiple levels and it is possible to climb up to the 7th level during the dry season. Hikers are advised to wear climbing shoes, take great caution and check the water currents, especially during the rainy season, when it becomes wet and slippery.

Klong Nung Waterfall is the tallest waterfall on Koh Chang, quite challenging to get to, but definitely worth the effort. The chest-deep pond is suitable for a cool dip after the 1-hour hike. There is no well-marked footpath going there and the only way is through the river. It is best to hire a local guide to lead the way.

Thaan Ma Yom Waterfall

The entrance to Thaan Ma Yom Waterfall is just behind the Marine National Park headquarters. Entrance fee to the waterfall is at Baht 200/person for adults and Baht 100/person for children. You can either park your vehicle right at the headquarters for free, or you can drive for another 150 meters and pay Baht 20 for a parking area. From there, you need to walk 200 meters on a well-marked pathway on the river bank. Along the way, you need to cross the river and a rope serves as guide. Getting to the waterfall requires no serious effort making it one of the most popular of all. It is a series of 3 falls along the Klong Mayom stream. The second waterfall is about 500 meters east and the third is 3 kms from the first.

Klong Nonsi Waterfall is located on the northernmost end of Koh Chang near the Dan Mai village. Follow the blue sign that will bring you to a parking area. There is a tin box where you can drop your parking fee of Baht 10 for motorbikes and Baht 30 for cars. There is no entrance fee to the waterfall. From there, you can take a leisurely 15-minute walk along fruit orchards to the waterfall. Follow the well-worn footpath and you will bring yourself to a moss-covered concrete steps on the riverbank. You need to go down the steps and travel up the river. Not too far from there, you will see a small-sized waterfall. Another moss-covered concrete steps will bring you to the upper level.

Klong Piu Waterfall

And finally, end the day trip with Klong Plu Waterfall. It is another one of the most popular waterfalls among local and foreign tourists as it is easy to get to if you are on the island's west coast. Entrance fee to the waterfall is at 200 Baht/person. But if you visit Klong Plu and Than Mayom Waterfall on the same day, you only need to pay once. To get there, you need to walk along a well-marked footpath for only 20 minutes or about 800 meters. Walking to the second and third levels will require the assistance of park officials as the path is slippery and difficult to reach. The fall plunges down a narrow drop-off into a pool, where you can go for a refreshing swim. The huge, cool, freshwater pool is deep in the center and the flank allowing visitors to dive from an elevated spot.

Klong Chao Waterfall

Other Islands

The Klong Yaiki Waterfall can be found on the northern part of Ban Klong Mad fishing village in Koh Kood. It is a splendid tourist spot, where the stones of the waterfalls resemble a very wide staircase.

Another waterfall on Koh Kood is Klong Chao Waterfall, or royally known as Anamkok Waterfall. The magnificent 3-tier-waterfall comprises of upper 2 tiers which is running cool, freshwater from the mountains, and a lower one which is a large pond with calm waters. Getting to the waterfall can be done in two ways. One can take a kayak and paddle up the estuary from the Klong Chao Bay, which will take about 15-20 minutes, and can prove to be a worthwhile time to enjoy the mangrove trees and the small fishermen's villages along. From the dock, the waterfall is a 10-15 minute hike on rocky path. Another way is to find your way to Ban Klong Chao, and take the 4-km trail hike to the waterfall which takes about 10-15 minutes.

Get to know the satellite islands of the Koh Chang Marine National Park.

Koh Chang Noi

Koh Chang Noi. Found on the northern tip of Koh Chang, the southern side of the island is a pretty good snorkeling spot, where the un-spoilt coral reef lies in the sea bed between the island and Chang Noi Cape. To the west of Koh Chang is a group of islands delightfully visible and, at times, reachable by kayak from Klong Prao or Kai Bae beach.

Koh Man Nai is easily reachable from Sea View Resort during low tide when the island exposes its sandy beach and waters are just chest-deep.

Koh Man Nok is the twin island to Koh Man Nai and is linked together by shallow waters with plenty of gold-colored seaweed.

Koh Phrao or Koh Sai Khao. A small island situated within Salak Petch Bay in Koh Chang and has long lines of coconut trees on the shores. During low tide, a white sand dune extends to the sea. Koh Sai Khao has a scenic view, clean clear seawater and is very serene.

A concrete pavement by the seaside allows for a pleasant stroll, while one side of the island has a concrete bridge, which stretches out into the sea and serves as a pier and a great view point.

Koh Ngam. It is an enchanting small island with a very narrow sand dune that forms a gorgeous contour holding the northeast and southwest section of the island together. The almost kidney-shaped island would look like 2 separate islands from afar. Besides holding the island in one piece, the sand dune created 2 crescent-shaped lagoons which are only 50 meters apart. Corals and fishes are aplenty and occasionally, you may see dolphins frolicking in the area.

For the more adventurous, a hike up the rocks to a 100 meter - tall hill on the southwest side of the island is both challenging and rewarding, with ropes provided to serve as guides. Over the hill is a white sand beach where you will also see plenty of decayed corals and serves as an excellent viewpoint for Koh Wai, Koh Laoya, Koh Kradad and Koh Chang. Freshwater ponds are found in the island and a waterfall flows across the island during the rainy season.

Moo Koh Maisi. A group of islands southeast of Koh Chang. The islands are made up of mostly mountains and forest with some coconut groves around the fishing villages. Koh Maisi Yai is home to the pearl oyster farm and has a splendid sandy beach along the bay on the east side.

Koh Laoya Nai, Koh Laoya Klang and Koh Laoya Nok. Famous for their long white sandy beaches, sparkling clear seawater, green forest and amazingly beautiful coral settlements. A wooden bridge links Koh Laoya Klang to Koh Laoya Nai with the water beneath the bridge very clear.

Koh Khlum. An excellent dive site especially at Larn Hin area with coral reefs about 10 - 20 meters deep and an abundance of big fishes. The dive sites of Hin Look Bard and Hin Larp are especially favorable. The island has a historical significance as it once was a battleground between the French and Thai navies during the French colonization of Indochina.

Koh Wai

Koh Wai. A peaceful island with huge bays and some of the best corals for diving and snorkeling. The beaches of Koh Wai, especially up north, are beautiful with reddish, clean sand, some of which has corals right from the beach. Lump corals are especially noticeable with their large sizes and excellent conditions. Some coral reefs are up to 2 kilometers long. Add to that relatively shallow seawater making the island one of the best places to snorkel or fish.

Koh Mai Dang. A peaceful and tranquil small island with white sandy beaches and unspoiled corals.

ISLANDS

12 islands of Koh Rang. Koh Rang Yai is the largest, covered with tropical rainforests and has the longest and most beautiful beach in the area. It has a hilly terrain and it's quite flat at the shores. Divers can enjoy the scenic underwater beauty up to 25 meters deep. The San Chao Beach features powdery white sand and crystal clear water. Northwards from the beach is a Marine National Park Ranger Unit where camping is allowed at a small fee and with the approval of the officer in charge. Here, you can avail of water supply and use of the toilets, but remember to bring your own food. In front of the Ranger Unit is a man-made bridge made by dropping rocks and stones into the sea. This bridge was built to help transport supplies from the International Red Cross Organization to Vietnamese refugees in the past. Further south is Koh Rang Lek, the main freshwater source with beautiful oval-shaped stones which have very smooth textures.

Birds and bats are abundant in Koh Rang Lek, where there is a bird's nest concession and also a major source of bat's dung known to be great fertilizers. For the lucky few who come on the right season, they may see sea turtles laying eggs on the island as it has become a chosen nesting ground for the turtles. Koh Kra, Koh Thong Lang and Koh Thain are popular sites for skin diving with abundant fishes and a vast array of varied corals. Of the three, Koh Kra has the longest beach at 20 meters. Swimming is discouraged, though, as the seabed is carpeted with corals. All these three islands are walking distance apart and the seawater is so shallow. Visitors are recommended to float with a life jacket or buoy in order to avoid stepping on some of the healthy corals. Koh Yak is a coral rock island with no beach and perfect for snorkeling.

9 islands of Koh Mak. Koh Mak is a quiet island, may seem underdeveloped to some, but perfectly secluded to others. A part of Koh Kood sub-district, it is located 35 kilometers away from the mainland. It measures 16 square kms in total, with a width of 10 kms and length of 5 kms from north to south. Basically, there are two main beaches on Koh Mak: Suanyai beach on the northwest, or Ao Khao Beach on the northern part of the island. Koh Rayang Nai and Koh Rayang Nok are off the western end of Ao Khao and can be reached by a longtail boat that leaves from Makathanee Resort. Koh Rayang Nai is a privately owned island which serves as a family heirloom handed from one generation to the next. During low tide, tourists can wade from Koh Mak to Koh Rayang Nai & Spa. The island is flat where there is only one resort and a few kilometers of white sand beach along the small, white, sandy beaches and east coast.

There is one resort on Koh Rayang Nok with a small beach offering peace and quiet and good snorkeling spot. Koh Phi is off the northwest coast of Koh Mak and can be reached by kayak from Koh Mak Cococape Resort. It is a good spot to snorkel. Koh Kham is a small white sandy beach with black volcanic rocks. It is 1 km away and, same with Koh Phi, can be reached by kayak from Koh Mak Cococape Resort. One can also wait for low tide when a sand dune appears that enable walking from Koh Mak to Koh Kham. It is a small island with aged lava, proving the existence of a volcano in prehistoric times. Koh Kradad is off the northeast of Koh Mak. It can be reached by paddling a canoe from The Cinnamon Art Resort & Spa. The island is flat where there is only one resort and a few kilometers of white sand beach along the small, white, sandy beaches and east coast.

Koh Kood sub-district. A group of 24 islands south of Koh Chang. These include the main island of Koh Kood, 9 islands of Koh Mak and 12 islands of Koh Rang. Koh Kood subdistrict has a very small population. Fishing and agriculture still remain the main occupations. It is the easternmost island of Thailand bordering Cambodia, and the farthest island of the marine national park from the mainland. The oldest village on Koh Kood is the Ban Klong Mad where the people are of Thai and Cambodian origins. These migrant dwellers are from the neighboring Koh Kong, who have found their place in the village since the French colonization of Indochina since the turn of the 20th century. The northern part of the village is where you will find the splendid Klong Yaiki Waterfall, where the stones of the waterfall are in different levels, reminding one of a very wide staircase. The west coast is lined with a series of pristine beaches, sparkling clear seawater and captivating views. The famed Klong Chao waterfall is situated further inland.

Ban Ao Salad is a fishing village of more than 80 years old and in history was once a hiding place for Vietnamese and Chinese crooks, but now is the seafood heaven of the island. Squid fishing enthusiasts should go to Saphan Nam Luek where people usually gather in the evening for fishing right on the pier. Khao Rearub is another interesting place to drop a visit. Its natural feature is similar to 3 boats laid side by side forming a small hill. Try to find the Tonsai Yak – a tree that is more than a hundred years old, so big that it will take a number of people to go around its trunk.

Koh Raet. A small island with a short sandy beach and blessed with a rich coral reef.
